The Directors are pleased to announce that field work has commenced at Wingellina and Claude Hills, in the Musgrave region. The company's exploration team is currently in the field preparing for the commencement of ground geophysical surveys in the first week in June, with drilling scheduled to commence shortly after.

The Company has received advice from Anangu Pitjantjatjara that the Company may proceed immediately with the aeromagnetic survey on Exploration Licence EL2777 (Claude Hills) outlined in its proposed works programme that was submitted earlier this year. Accordingly, the Company has retained a contractor to carry out the survey forthwith.

The Company has also received advice that the final screening and clearance report in respect of its proposed reverse-circulation drilling programme will be completed by 18 June 2004. Accordingly, the drilling contractor selected to carry out a further drilling programme at Wingellina will carry out the drilling programme at Claude Hills at the conclusion of the work at Wingellina.
